twenty nine collected essays represent a critical history of shakespeare s play as text and as theater beginning with samuel johnson in 1765 and ending with a review of the royal shakespeare company production in 1991 the criticism centers on three aspects of the play the love friendship debate

an emotion is a subjective state of being that we often describe as our feelings emotions result from the combination of subjective experience expression cognitive appraisal and physiological responses levenson carstensen friesen ekman 1991 the source of our emotions remains elusive no one knows exactly where emotions come from what makes us feel the way we do or whether we can fully control the way we feel emotion is intimately related to cognition and culture and it affects us physically our bodies react to different emotional states and we often show emotion physically researchers have proposed many theories about the source purpose and expression of emotion in many ways our emotions define our existence without them most of us would not feel truly alive we ve all felt fear of a lurking stranger pride at scoring well on a test love sadness and loneliness and between emotional extremes are the ups and downs of everyday life frustration in a traffic jam contentment over a satisfying lunch amusement at a cartoon we have much to learn about emotion but we have also learned simply by being human and feeling things every day as we move through our daily lives we experience a variety of emotions an emotion is a subjective state of being that we often describe as our feelings however as discussed later in the chapter the exact order in which the components occur is not clear and some parts may happen at the same time an emotion often begins with a subjective individual experience which is a stimulus often the stimulus is external but it does not have to be from the outside world for example it might be that one thinks about war and becomes sad even though they never experienced war emotional expression refers to the way one displays an emotion and includes nonverbal and verbal behaviors gross 1999 one also performs a cognitive appraisal in which a person tries to determine the way they will be impacted by a situation roseman smith 2001 in addition emotions include physiological responses such as possible changes in heart rate sweating etc emotions are a pervasive feature of human life and much of what we take to be meaningful and significant is inextricably linked with our capacity to experience emotions consider how impoverished our lives would be without love hate jealousy joy happiness despair anger sadness regret hope admiration reverence fear horror and doom great writers of literature have a knack for capturing emotional experiences in all their richness for example consider one of proust s descriptions of swann s jealous love in in search of lost time but then at once his jealousy as though it were the shadow of his love presented him with the complement with the converse of that new smile with which she had greeted him that very evening and which now perversely mocked swann and shone with love for another of that droop of the head now sinking on to other lips of all the routledge companion to literature and emotion shows how the affective turn in the humanities applies to literary studies deftly combining the scientific elements with the literary the book provides a theoretical and topical introduction to reading literature and emotion looking at a variety of formats including novels drama film graphic fiction and lyric poetry the book also includes focus on specific authors such as shakespeare chaucer jane austen virginia woolf and viet thanh nguyen the volume introduces the theoretical groundwork covering such categories as affect theory affective neuroscience cognitive science evolution and history of emotions it examines the range of emotions that play a special role in literature including happiness fear aesthetic delight empathy and sympathy as well as aspects of literature style narrative voice and others that bear on emotional response finally it explores ethical and political concerns that are often intertwined with emotional response including racism colonialism disability ecology gender sexuality and trauma this is a crucial guide to the ways in which new interdisciplinary understandings of emotion and affect in fields from neuroscience to social theory are changing the study of literature and of the ways those new understandings are impacted by work on literature also
